

MONGOLIA REPUBLIC GRABS BIG ESTATES

To Be Turned Into Farms Operated by Peasants.

Washington.—Where in Ulan Bator, capital of one of the last of the three terms, so that in newspaper date lines the city is likely to make its first appearance as "Ulan Bator." A recent dispatch from this little-known city related that the estates of former princes and nobles of the "People's Republic of Mongolia" had been confiscated by the government and apportioned among collective farms operated by peasants. A bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society told of this remote capital and the country of which it is the seat of government.

Tangled Political Situation
"Ulan Bator Hotel—City of the Red Heroes"—is merely a new name for Ulan Bator, which the geography textbooks of a few years ago identified as the administrative seat of a Chinese state, says the bulletin. "The new name was adopted in 1924, when the republic was proclaimed. Its independence, declared in 1921.

"Few countries have ever had such a tangled political situation as Mongolia has had since 1911 when the Chinese empire was overthrown and the republic was proclaimed.

Constitutional Troubles

"I HAVE used Black-Draught as a family medicine for a good many years," says Mrs. Sallie Laughlin, of Huddell, N.C. "I have found it an excellent remedy for constipation and troubles that follow it. I have suffered frequently from gas, pain, and when I began to take Black-Draught, relief followed quickly. 'I give Black-Draught to the children when they are constipated, and it is not long until they are running around again.' Thousands of others have reported good results from the use of this purely vegetable medicine. Insist on the genuine Thaw's."

An editorial which appeared in the February 15, 1930, issue of The Southern Statesman strongly urged the restoration of the Virginia Legislative Reference Bureau. The editorial in full follows:
